Excerpt: .is known, A fact as sure as parsons preach, So man, has all experience shown, Is seen most clearly by his speech. Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. Special proverbs supply us with some excellent admonitions. Better the feet slip than the tongue. Give neither advice nor salt until you are asked for it. Advise none to marry, nor to go to war. Dont talk of my debts unless you mean to pay them. Dont talk of a halter in his house who was hanged. Some people have the undesirable faculty of always saying the wrong thing to the wrong people: others delight in what Sheridan called, 1 a nice derangement of epitaphs; nor can that comparison of his Mrs. Malaprop ever come to be forgotten, As pensive as an allegory on the banks of the Nile! In bocca serrata...
